QUOTES FROM CALLERS

Thank you for hearing me and being there. I felt very ashamed and I had no one to tell.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to talk. The calmness in your voice helped calm me down.

You were the light at the end of the tunnel for me.

I am just so thankful for you all; thank you for hearing me and helping me find my voice.

Thank you so much. You don't understand how much of a help you are.

CHILDHELP NATIONAL CHILD ABUSE HOTLINE

The Childhelp National Child Abuse Hotline, 1-800-4-A-CHILD (1-800-422-4453), is dedicated to preventing child abuse. The hotline offers crisis intervention, information, literature, and referrals to thousands of emergency, social service, and support resources. All calls are confidential.

The hotline has received more than 2 million calls since it began in 1982. These calls come from children at risk for abuse, distressed parents seeking crisis intervention and concerned individuals who suspect child abuse may be occurring. The hotline is a valuable resource for mandated reporters who suspect abuse, such as school personnel, medical and mental health professionals and police and fire investigators.

At Childhelp's family skills classes and foster care training, clients of all ages learn someone will be waiting a phone call away in a time of need.

The Hotline has been championed by celebrity friends since its beginning with support from the likes of Florence Henderson, Ed Asner, Seals and Crofts, and Cheryl Ladd. Today, it continues to find celebrity support, mentioned on air by friends like Kathie Lee Gifford, Megyn Kelly and Bill O'Reilly whenever child abuse issues emerge in the news.

Hotline in print

The Childhelp National Child Abuse Hotline is a mainstay in nationally syndicated advice columns and is often offered by Dear Abby, Dear Prudence and Carolyn Hax as a smart first step for writers worried about abuse or neglect of a child. Journalists often include 1-800-4-A-CHILD in stories on child abuse and neglect, and the hotline was recently featured in Parents Magazine.
